Team Medical Australia to provide medical services to Supercars events.

Team Medical Australia signs a new agreement with Supercars extending their partnership to more than 10 years.

Team Medical Australia is the premiere motor sports medical service provider in Australia and has been a trusted partner with Supercars for the past 8 years. This new agreement ensures that Supercars drivers continue to get world class medical treatment at the track when they need it for the foreseeable future.

Dr Brent May, President and Chief Medical Officer of Team Medical Australia, says the achievement reflects the highest quality medical care provided by Team Medical Australia to drivers and officials.

“We provide contemporary, world class trauma management to Supercars events and are recognised internationally for the care we provide and the processes we have in place”

“Supercars and Team Medical Australia have an excellent working relationship and this agreement further reinforces the trust and collaboration between the two groups.”

“The latest agreement will help us to reinvest in the care of drivers, teams and officials involved in motor sport to achieve the best outcomes for anyone that is injured or sick at any event that we attend”.

Team Medical Australia will provide medical service for nine Supercars events including the Bathurst 1000, Gold Coast 600, Sandown 500, Townsville, Symmons Plains, Phillip Island, Sydney Motorsports Park, Ipswich as well as the new Newcastle Round. They will also continue to provide the medical service for the Bathurst 12 Hour major event.

Team Medical Australia provide medical services for numerous events nationally and also support the MotoGP, World Superbike and Australian Formula 1 Grand Prix as well as international events. Now in their 11th year, Team Medical Australia has grown to become the most significant motor sports medical service provider in the country.

Team Medical Australia is made up of volunteer doctors, nurses, paramedics, specialty drivers and support staff who attend motor sports events almost every weekend somewhere in Australia.
